CURLING CLUB WILL GET RINK SAME TERMS AS FORMER YEARS

A regular meeting of the Town Council was held last week when Mayor Gerow presided over a full Council board.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been adopted.

A letter was read from the Wainwright Curling Club, asking application for rental of the curling rink for the season 1924-25 under the same conditions at a rental of $100.00 for the season.

Lissimore-Cork—That the application of the Curling club for the curling rink and for the use of the skating rink be placed on the table to come up under "new business".

Mr. W. E. Owen waited on the Council regarding the condition of the roof on the curling rink.

A communication was read from Mr. M. Greer asking leave for the rental of the skating rink under the following conditions:

"To take over, take charge of and control the skating rink premises for the season 1924-25 (commencing as on foundation ice is made, or as soon as so decided by your honorable body) and to fulfill the programme for a proper running of the rink on the following schedule:

"Skating with the band every Tuesday and Thursday night. Skating on these nights and band music will be absolutely guaranteed, and will not be interfered with in any way except when rink is being used by curling club for bonspiel.

"Skating without band every Saturday afternoon except when ice required for junior hockey. Watch Rink will then be open on Saturday evenings for skating on same conditions as after-noon. Rink will always be closed Saturday evening provided there is skating in the afternoon.

"Hockey for both junior and senior teams, for either practice or games on Monday and Friday nights.

"Wednesday to remain an open night and may be used for carnivals, skating parties, skating, etc. If no request for any of these purposes rink will be closed.

"Curling club to be allowed use of rink for three days for the purpose of holding bonspiel; rink to be left in same condition as found, curling club to pay for light used—cost of light to be determined by meter readings. If Curling club require use of rink on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, they may also have the use of same on the preceding Saturday.

"It is my intention on hand skating nights to require all children of school age to leave the ice at 9 o'clock unless they pay the adult admission fee.

"Rent for rink to be $250.00 payable in full by January 1st, 1925; it being understood that the town will lay the foundation ice."

The Rink Management Committee reported that the dressing applied to the curling rink roof is dripping through in places, and would recommend that the fire hose be used to get the roof a good washing so as to get rid of any surplus oil there may be, and thus get away from any trouble in the spring or after the ice has been made; and also recommend that the former motion covering the leasing of the rink be rescinded and recommend that this Council accept the offer from Mr. M. Greer for the leasing of the skating rink at $250.00 as outlined in his petition of this date.

Lissimore-Cork—That the report of the Rink Committee be adopted—Carried.

Councillors Forster and Fraser voting "Nay."

The Electric Utility committee reported that requisition No. 91, issued by Chief electrical inspector R. Wagner, be acknowledged, and also that the communication from Commissioner J. K. King, of the Workmen's Compensation Board, be answered and application be made for the necessary extension of time to complete the work. They further recommended that Mr. A. Scofield, Jr., be hired at a salary of $100.00 per month.

Cork-Welch—That the report of the Electric Utility committee be adopted—Carried.

Huntingford-Forster—That the application for recommendation for restaurant license made by Mr. J. C. Johnson for premises situated on lot 3 block 10 be approved upon payment by applicant of the usual town license fee.—Carried.

Welch-Lissimore—That the application of the Curling club for the use of the curling rink be accepted.—Carried.

Huntingford-Cork—That the Rink Committee be empowered to place the roof of the curling rink in a satisfactory condition with tarred paper at the earliest possible moment.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

CHANGING SEED GRAIN SOMETIMES REALLY IMPERATIVE

(Experimental Farms Note).

A common question asked by farmers is, "Does it pay to change seed?" The inference here is that where the same seed has been used on the same farm for a few years, it may deteriorate in its ability to produce a profitable crop. It is also a common belief that one operating a farm characterized by relatively light soil should obtain his seed frequently from a crop which is produced on soil of a heavier character and vice versa. Some authorities have scoffed at the idea that a change of seed is ever necessary. They argue that seed grown year after year in a district must of necessity become acclimatized and better adapted to the soil conditions of that district. It is safe to say that many farmers have followed this advice to their financial loss. Investigation and observation have revealed the fact that it is not possible to lay down any definite rule as to when seed should be changed. It is obvious that certain circumstances may arise to make the change of seed appear imperative, even to the casual observer. For instance, a crop may be so badly damaged through lack of moisture or by some condition which has forced premature ripening as to cause the resulting grain to be very light and poor. Under such circumstances, it would, of course, be foolhardy to think of using this grain for seed. This, however, is an extreme case. The problem to determine is whether, under normal circumstances, one may expect a larger crop from the use of seed from elsewhere than on the farm on which it is intended to be used. Without going into detail, one may safely follow the rule to change seed only when seed may be obtained which possesses a higher degree of development and vigor than the home-grown. This is assuming that the home-grown seed belongs to a suitable variety for the district and is free from noxious impurities. If these latter provisions are not complied with the seed, of course, should not be used under any circumstances. Farmers who contemplate changing their seed and whose seed is reasonably good, at present, would be well advised to procure some first class registered seed through the Canadian Seed Growers' Association at Ottawa and test this in comparison with their own. This is a relatively inexpensive practice which might well be adopted periodically by every farmer and with all chances of success.

JUNIOR RED CROSS WILL AGAIN HANDLE CHRISTMAS SEALS

Every year as the Christmas season draws near, the children of the Junior Red Cross become little merchants of a certain Christmas ware which they try to sell to a kindly, intentioned public.

This Christmas attraction is nothing other than the pretty green and red seal stickers sold on behalf of the Children's Hospital in Calgary. The Alberta Division, like all other Red Cross divisions, looks to the sale of its Red Cross Seals to give an extra fillip to the funds of the Crippled Children's Hospital at the end of the year.

As a rule there is evinced a keen desire on the part of the public to support the sale of seals; many repeat orders come through the mail or by telephone from country branches whose enthusiasm has enabled them to exceed their sale quota, and with future customers in view, they send a rush call for "more".

Two hundred thousand seals have been issued by the Superintendent of Junior Red Cross to the school branches of the province, and it is anticipated that there will be many "sold out" that it will be necessary to restock the little merchants.

All ready right now—Chain paper for the Kiddies for Christmas—Star.

W.C.T.U. LADIES HOLD REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held on Thursday afternoon last at the home of Mrs. W. Crowe, this being the second meeting of this body since its inauguration. During the afternoon Mrs. Nelson favored with a reading and Mrs. G. Pybus gave a musical selection which were both much enjoyed. The next meeting is called for December 18th, at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Nelson, and a hearty invitation is extended to all ladies to join.

BOYS OFF FOR JAUNT

The "back to the land" spirit was certainly clearly evinced on Saturday last by Masters Byron, Snyder and Walton, when these young boys betook them selves off to the wilds armed with blankets, food and other camping equipment. They were discovered in the Greenhills district on Sunday morning, brought home by some of the fathers concerned, no doubt to become acquainted with a good lecture, or possibly sterner measures.

COURT DECISION MAY UPSET MANY LAND TAX SALES

Land assessments upon properties held under the agreements of sale in which names of the present holders appear on notices sent out by municipal secretaries are illegal unless the names of the registered owners of such properties are also entered upon the assessment and tax rolls and sent to such parties. This is the far-reaching decision of the Appeal Court, based upon the judgment in the Edmonton Trust Company versus Municipal District of Sturgeon case, handed down Saturday. It will also have the effect of rendering invalid many tax enforcement proceedings that have been taken by municipalities subsequent to such illegal assessment and taxation.

The unanimous decision of Chief Justice Harvey and the four justices of the Appeal Court thus holds the practice of Municipal secretaries, who have been acting under advice by the Department of Municipal Affairs, to have been erroneous under the act governing assessment. In view of this a has been suggested in legal circles that the government of Alberta may have to pass some legislation to cure the bad situation that has been created with regard to numerous properties through its interpretation of its own legislation.

The case was brought into the courts recently when the Edmonton Trust Company discovered that a certain piece of property in which they had an interest and still remained registered owners, had passed out of the hands of the man who held the same under agreement of sale because of non payment of taxes. A caveat had already been filed against the property by the Municipal District of Sturgeon although they had received no assessment notices nor tax bills. They sought to have the caveat removed and a declaration of the District Court that the taxes against the property were wrongfully levied. Judge Crawford is set aside with costs and an appeal argued a fortnight ago by Neil D. MacLeod, K.C., and responded to by J. F. Lyndhurst for the municipality. The judgment of Judge Chisworth is set aside with costs and the caveat registered against the land is ordered removed, having been illegally entered—Edmonton Bulletin.

PROVINCIAL INCOME TAX AGAIN URGED BY MR. J. R. LOVE

Mr. J. Russell Love, the provincial member for the Wainwright constituency is holding meetings in the eastern parts of the riding, and last week addressed a large and interested gathering of farmers and their wives in the Killarney School house. Jas. Tooth local U. F. organizer, acted as chairman.

Taking for his subject the question of public finance, Mr. Love endeavored to impress upon his hearers, the present, past and future position of Alberta in regard to the financing of the financing of its projects and the balancing of the budget; the ground covered taking in the boom period of 1910 up to the present, referred to by some as the "boom" period.

By the aid of a series of charts he traced, the progress of the province during this period, and explained that owing to provincial financing having been done largely through debentures and federal grants the sense of responsibility for the future failed to develop as it should either in government or people.

He, therefore, offered as a solution, the imposition of a provincial income tax along the lines advocated by him during the past session. In explaining his preference for this form of taxation over others, he said that there were people and industries in the province which were making huge profits off the products of the farm, who, if taxed in this way would make a dependable source of revenue. He also mentioned the fact that there were wealthy professional and business men who escaped the taxes inevitable to the householder and farmer by "hoarding" at the Macdonald, while in the province. As things were now, these men were making their money off Albertans and spending it in California. In discussing the question of educational grants he said he saw no fairer way of providing for those leaving in a few days to fill a higher post at the head office of that bank in Winnipeg.

Mr. S. Trewartha, who has been visiting her daughter Mrs. F. Stott for a couple of weeks has now returned home to Calgary.

Mr. H. Mabey is now back from a visit to several friends at points in Saskatchewan.

We understand that Mr. and Mrs. L. Bean are moving into the O. M. Lewis cottage on Fifth avenue.

Mr. Ivan Chilton, who has been employed with the Imperial Oil Co. at Courts, has now returned. Mr. C. Brunker also returned with him.

Mr. L. L. Howes who has been travelling in the interest of oil company interests was home again this week.

ALL SIGNS POINT TO BRIGHTER OUTLOOK SAYS COMMISSIONER

Alberta is better off, agriculturally, than it was last year. The banks and loan companies are more optimistic. During the last two years, at the Royal, Intercolonial and Eaton shows, Alberta has secured more prize money than all the rest of Canada put together, and more than any two states in the union. Tabulated return over a twenty-year period show that Alberta leads the whole Dominion in spring wheat.

These were some of the statements made by W. J. Stephens, provincial field crop commissioner, speaking at a well attended board of trade meeting at Red Deer.

Never before, said Mr. Stephens had such a fine exhibit of livestock gone off at such a price. The farmers were interesting themselves in their livestock and timothy seed. Two hundred and fifty thousand pounds of the latter had been raised at Pincher Creek, and the same amount of alfalfa at Brooks.

Speaking of wheat, the speaker said that the rust handicap in Manitoba made competition by Alberta a little easier. Marquis and Red Fife were the favorite varieties, while the possibilities of Renfrew had not yet been thoroughly tested, and it was, therefore, not recommended for the market. Sugar beets had been experimented with at Raymond and Taber. A factory had been started, but was not in great success, owing to the scarcity of and high cost of labor. The roots yielded from six to seven per cent more sugar than in Utah. The government was trying out a machine that would pull and top five or six acres a day.

He thought Alberta farmers were too conservative in their methods. Ruby was an excellent yielding wheat but gave too low a yield. The Peace River district had great possibilities but they needed a direct outlet to the Pacific and reasonable rates. He thought the Crow's Nest Pass rates needed revision. His opinion was that Alberta would progress faster, with more people and smaller farms. He was an advocate of intensive farming and thought the era of large ranches was passing. There was a world wheat shortage of 401,000,000 bushels.

"Captain Blood"

BUCCANEER.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD, BUCCANEER," a Vitaphone picture with J. W. Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

When the old Wall cast anchor in the bay two days later it was to him all turned for the explanation they were about to demand of Blood. Now Wolverstone had only one eye; but he saw a deal more with that one eye than do most men with two; and he had the sound heart of a boy, and in that heart much love for Peter Blood. Also when ashore he was beset by questioning buccaneers, it was from their very questions that he gathered exactly how matters stood, and perceived that either from lack of courage or other motive Blood himself had refused to render any account of his doings since the Arabella had separated from her sister ships.

"The Captain was ever a modest man," he explained to Hagthorpe and those others who came crowding round him. "It's not his way to be sounding his own praises. Why, it was like this. We fell in with old Don Miguel, and when we'd scuttled him we took aboard a London pimp sent by the Secretary of State to offer the Captain the King's commission if he'd quit piracy, and be a good boy, he said. The Captain dismissed his son to hell for answer. And then we fell in with the Jamaica fleet and that grey old devil Bishop in command, and there was a sure end to Captain Blood and to every mother's son of us all. So I goes to him, and accept this proxy commission," says I; turn King's man and save your neck and ours. He took me at my word, and the London pimp gave him the King's commission on the spot, and Bishop all but choked his self with rage when he was told of it. But happened it had, and he was forced to swallow it. We were King's men all, so into Port Royal we sailed along o' Bishop, but Bishop didn't trust us. He knew too much but for his lordship, the fellow from London, he'd ha' hauled the Captain, King's commission and all.

Blood would ha' slipped out o' port Royal again that same night. But that found Bishop had passed the word and the fort kept a sharp lookout. In the end, though it took a fortnight Blood bubbled him. He sent me a note for the men-of-war to say that I brought for the voyage. His game—as he'd secretly told me—was to follow and give chase. Whether that's the game he played or not I can not tell; but here he is afore me as I'd expected he would be."

Having delivered himself of his dejection of fact and falsehood and thereby added one more to the exploits of Peter Blood, he enquired where the captain might be found. Blood informed that he kept his ship Wolverstone stepped into a boat and went aboard to report himself, as he put it.

In the great cabin of the Arabella he found Peter Blood alone and very far gone in drink—a condition in which no man ever before remembered it. He saw him, As Wolverstone came in, the Captain raised bloodshot eyes to consider him. A moment they were fixed in their gaze as he brought his visitor into focus. Then he laughed, a loose, idiotic laugh, that yet somehow had the sound heart of a boy, and in that heart much love for Peter Blood.

"My God, Peter, what's this?" "Rum," said Peter. "Rum from Jamaica."

"I'm asking you what ails you," he bawled.

"Rum," said Captain Blood, again and smiled. "Jus' rum. I answer all your questions. Why onjer answer mine? Whatcher gondero w' me?"

"I've done it," said Wolverstone. "Thank God, ye had the sense to hold your tongue till I came. Are ye sober enough to understand me, me?"

"Drunk or sober, alius I derstand you," "Then listen." And out came the tale that Wolverstone had told. The Captain steadied himself to grasp it. It'll do as well aserruth," said he when Wolverstone had finished.

"Lord, Peter! Is there never to be no end to this?" the giant growled.

"Ye're naudin'," Wolverstone growled. "We'll talk again tomorrow."

They did; but to little purpose either that day or on any day thereafter while the rains—which set in that night—endured. Soon the shrewd Wolverstone discovered that rum was not what ailed Blood. There was a ranker rotting at his heart and the Old Wolf knew enough to make a shrewd guess of its nature. He cursed all things that dagged petticoats, and knowing his world, waited for the sickness to pass.

But it did not pass. When Blood was not dicing or drinking in the taverns of Tortuga, keeping company in squalid ways he had loathed, he was shut up in his cabin aboard the Arabella, alone and uncommunicative. His friends at Government House, bewildered at this change in him, sought to reclaim him. Mademoiselle d'Ogeron particularly distressed, sent him almost daily invitations, to few of which he responded.

Sometimes Blood asked himself why he had come back to Tortuga at all. He was degenerating visibly, under the eyes of all. He allowed a black beard to grow on cheeks that had ever been so carefully shaven; and the long, thick black hair, so sedulously curled, hung now in a lank, untidy mane. Wolverstone, the only one who held the clue to his degeneration, ventured once to beard him frankly about it.

"Lord, Peter! Is there never to be no end to this?" the giant had growled. "Will you spend your days moping and swilling 'cause a white-faced dunny in Port Royal 'll have none o' ye?" "Shh! and 'Ounds! If ye want the wench, why the plague does not ye go and fetch her?"

"If there's no other expedition to tempt you, why not Port Royal? There's enough plunder in the town to tempt the lads, and there's the wench for you. Shall I sound them on?"

Blood was on his feet, his eyes blazing, his livid face distorted. "Ye'll leave my cabin this minute, so ye will or, by heaven, it's your corpse'll be carried out of it. Ye mangy hound, if ye dare come to me with such proposit."

But at last as his buccaneers were growing desperate something happened, brought about by the captain's friend, M. d'Ogeron. One sunny morning aboard the Arabella, accompanied by a chubby little gentleman, amiable of countenance, amiable and self-sufficient of manner.

"My captain," M. d'Ogeron delivered himself, "I bring you M. de Cussy the Governor of French Hispaniola who desires a word with you."

Your command, my captain," said M. de Cussy. "Some eight hundred men understood they were on their way."

"I'm speaking officially, my captain. There is war between France and Spain in Europe. It is the intention of France that this war shall be carried into the New World. A fleet is coming out from Brest under the command of M. le Baron de Rivarol for that purpose. I have letters from him desiring me to equip a supplementary squadron and raise a body of not less than a thousand men to reinforce him on his arrival. What I have come to propose to you, my captain, at the suggestion of our good friend, M. d'Ogeron, is in brief, that you enroll your ships and your force under M. de Rivarol's flag."

"You are offering to take us into Vassal for yourself and suitable ranks for the officers serving under you. You will be entitled, together with your men, to one-tenth share in all prizes taken."

"I will consult my officers," said Blood. They came and the matter was laid before them by M. de Cussy himself. Yberville, the young French filibuster, had the honor to point out M. de Cussy that the share offered was too small. For one-fifth of the prizes, the officers would answer for their men not for less. This M. de Cussy finally conceded, and the articles were drawn up and signed that every day The buccaneers were to be at Petit Goave by the end of January, when M. de Rivarol had announced that he might be expected.

Chapter XXIII

M. DE RIVAROL
Captain Blood was in a disgruntled mood when he sailed from Tortuga and still in that mood when he came to his moorings in the bay of Petit Goave. In that same mood he greeted M. le Baron de Rivarol when this nobleman with his fleet of five men-of-war at last dropped anchor alongside the buccaneer ships.

Summoned to wait on him, Captain Blood repaired to the Castle of Petit Goave, where the interview was to take place. The Baron, a tall, hawk-faced man of forty, very cold and distant of manner, measured Captain Blood with an eye of obvious disapproval. Of Hagthorpe, Yberville and Wolverstone, who stood ranged behind their captain, he took no heed whatever. M. de Cussy offered Captain Blood a chair.

"A moment, M. de Cussy. I do not think M. le Baron has observed that I am not present to you sir, my companions: Captain Hagthorpe of the Elizabeth, Captain Yberville of the Lachaise."

The Baron stared hard and haughtily at Captain Blood. His manner implied plainly that he despised them, and that he desired them at once to understand it. It had a curious effect upon Captain Blood. It awoke the devil in him, and it awoke, at the same time his self-respect, which of late had been slumbering. A sudden shame of his disordered, ill-kempt appearance made him perhaps the more defiant. He waved his captains to the chairs that stood about.

"Draw up to the table lads. We are keeping the Baron waiting." They obeyed him, Wolverstone with a grin that was full of understanding. Hagthorpe grew the stare of M. de Rivarol. He did the only thing remaining to mark a distinction between himself and them. He put on his hat.

"Ye're very wise now," said Blood amiably. "I feel the draught myself." And he covered himself with his plumed cap. "Shall we come to business?" "Perhaps it will be best," M. de Rivarol took up a paper. "Before going further, I have to observe that M. de Cussy has exceeded his instructions in admitting you to one-fifth of the prizes taken."

"That is a matter between yourself and M. de Cussy, my general."

"Oh, no. It is a matter between myself and you."

"Your pardon, my general. The articles are signed. So far as we are concerned, the matter is closed."

"But, non de Dieu! It is your concern, I suppose that we cannot award you more than one tenth share."

"You are quite certain of that, M. le Baron; that you cannot?"

"I am quite certain that I will not."

In that case," said Blood, it but remains for me to present my little account for our disbursement, and to fix the sum at which we should be compensated for our loss of time and derangement in coming hither. That settled, we can part friends, M. le Baron. No harm has been done."

"What the devil do you mean?" "Is it possible that I am delirious? My French, perhaps, is not of the purest but—"

"Oh, your French is fluent enough to be fluent at moments, if I may permit myself the observation. Now, look you here, M. le Filibuster, you have accepted service of the King of France and your men. The first obligation of an officer is obedience. You are not to conceive yourselves, as you appear to be doing, my allies in the enterprises I have in view, but my subordinates. In me you behold a commander to lead you, not a companion or an equal."

"Oh, be sure, that I understand," Captain Blood laughed. He was recovering his normal self amazingly under the inspiring stimulus of conflict. The only thing that marred his enjoyment was the reflection that he had not saved. "I forget nothing, I assure you, my general. I do not forget, for instance, as you appear to be doing that the articles we signed are the condition of our service; and the articles provide that we receive one-fifth share."

"My superior officer! You! Why, you are just a common pirate."

Refuse us that, and you cancel our services with them. From that moment we cease to have the honor to hold rank in the navies of the King of France."

Captain Blood rose, his officers rose with him. Captain Blood bowed. "M. le Baron!" said he.

"You shall be advised of my resolve M. le Baron!" said he.

That resolve proved to be Captain Blood hunting audience with the admiral while he sat at dinner. The Old Wolf had retorted with his ready fist a mocking Frenchman's remarks and had been flung in jail.

M. de Rivarol bade his visitor be admitted.

There entered now into his presence a spruce and modish gentleman, dressed with care and somber richness in black and silver, his swarthy, clear-cut face scrupulously shaven, his long black hair in ringlets that fell to a collar of fine point. In his right hand the gentleman carried a broad black hat with a scarlet ostrich plume, in his left

What Does This Trade Mark Mean?

You will see this shield-shaped trade mark in hardware stores everywhere. You won't see it on cheap, inferior goods. It goes only on household utensils of the highest quality, yet selling at moderate prices, because of the tremendous quantities sold each year.

Choose cooking and baking utensils that carry this trade mark. Choose SMP Enamelled Ware, with its very hard, smooth surface. Heats faster, cleans easier, imparts no metallic flavor, causes no dangerous acid reactions. Ask for

Three Rivers, Quebec, Has New Station

Citizens of Three Rivers, Quebec, regard the recent inauguration of the new Canadian Pacific Railway Station as marking a new epoch in the life of their city inasmuch as it affords proof of the status already attained by Trois-Rivieres as an industrial centre and of the greater prominence it is expected to occupy in the future. The new station building is the most up-to-date and magnificent of its kind in eastern Canada. Of its construction cost, not less than $200,000 represents the amount of money spent in Three Rivers.

Some idea as to the way Three Rivers has developed may be gathered from a few remarks made by E. J. Hebert, first assistant general passenger agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, in proposing a toast at the banquet that marked the official opening. "Until 1875 navigation was the only transportation facility," he said. "Then the Northern Railway was built between Quebec, Three Rivers and Montreal; but it was not until 1905 that industries began to appear. With the opening of the St. Maurice Valley Railway trade developed rapidly. The towns of Shawinigan Falls, Grand Mere, Cap-de-la-Madeleine, La Gabelle, small hamlets in 1905, have become important industrial centres, with populations respectively of 12,000, 7,500 and 3,000 people, while Three Rivers itself has over 50,000 population now and is still growing."

WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA NOVEMBER 26th, 1924

PRICES THAT USED TO BEThe high cost of living in these days is well illustrated by a comparison with the cost of living half a century ago. The Fairmont, Minn., Sentinel, makes such a comparison by listing the variety of articles received for a $1.50 subscription at that date in lieu of cash. The Sentinel in 1874 was published at the subscription price of $1.
50 a year. The times were such that the publishers could hardly expect pay in advance or at all, unless times improved.The early subscription books show that people paid for their paper with commodities in many instances. The records show that the publishers received the following things on subscription account: Wood, hay, fish, honey, mutton, cheese, feathers, carriage, furs, sorghum, roasting carnations, pork and many other necessities of life.Here is the quantity of the various crops and products that it took to raise $1.50 the price of the paper, when the first year's subscriptions came due.Fifteen dozen eggs.
Fifteen pounds of butter,
1 1/2 bushels of wheat,
2 1/2 bushels of oats,
3 bushels of corn,
5 bushels of potatoes,
A bushel of beans,
Twelve pounds of lard,
Thirty pounds of cowhide,
Fourteen pounds fresh pork,
Thirty-five pounds of mutton,
Six pounds of wool.3/4 cord-dry oak wood or green mixed wood.
Three-fourths ton of hay,
10 choice or 15 good muskrat skins.DRIVE MONEE
FROM ALBERTALittle more can be done to impress upon the provincial government the need of remedial legislation affecting mortgage loans in Alberta. The time has apparently arrived when it is best for the loaning companies to "rest their case" in respect to mortgage legislation. They should codify their requests for what they regard as essential changes in the law and then accept what the government will do at the next session of the house.It is difficult to see how the members of the government can fail to recognize it, so much the worse for their former constituents. With the change in the present wholly unsatisfactory laws, there will be still more drastic curtailment of the loans in the future.Another condition to which the provincial government will have to give attention is the effect of the Dominionlegislation upon loaning in the province. The Dominion government is enforcing regulations forbidding loan companies from including in their proprietor's interest liabilities that are two years in arrears. This will seriously affect the difficulty of making loans on farm mortgages in Alberta. In place of retaining its own prohibitory mortgage legislation, the Alberta government ought to be making an effort to free the province from the hurtful effects of this Dominion enactment.Provincial legislation as it stands is harmful enough. This Dominion law greatly aggravates an already bad situation. The provincial government should mend its own financial fences first before its acts and the new Dominion law this province will be drained dry of money for farm extension purposes
—Ex.WINTER FEEDING AND HOUSING FALL LITTERS

(Experimental Farms Note).

The fall-littered litter must be housed and fed under more or less artificial conditions in this climate during the winter. The rapidly developing pigs demand mineral matter for the building of bone and muscle, meal and other feeds in a relatively concentrate form, and also some form of succulence to assist in the normal functioning of digestive organs.There are many mineral feeds available in both organic and inorganic forms and these include charcoal, bone meal, tankage, wood ashes, bone black, ground lin-stone, earthy matter of sods, etc. These may be fed in hoppers or if finely ground, may be added to the meal ration at the rate of a few pounds per hundred of meal.Succulence may be supplied to the hogs in the form of roots, or potatoes if roots are not available. The potatoes give better results when boiled and mixed with meal. The roots may be pulped and mixed with the meal to form a mash, but for the younger pigs they should be pulped.A meal ration composed of equal parts of shorts, middlings and finely ground oats is suitable for pigs of 2 1/2 to 3 months of age when supplemented with about 3 per cent of linseed oil meal and skin-milk. A well developed pig of that age will consume about 1 pound of this meal mixture and 5 lbs of milk per day. Tankage or meal may be substituted for the milk at the rate of 6 to 8 per cent of the meal ration but seldom gives as good results. For older pigs a meal mixture composed of ground oats, 2 parts; shorts, 1 part; middlings, 1 part; bran, 1 part; barley, 1 part; and linseed oil meal 3 per cent gives good results. A variety of meals is usually better thana single meal. An equal quantity of roots may be added to the meal ration after the pigs are 3 to 4 months of age but carefully avoid overfeeding.
In housing, the main features to keep in mind are cleanliness, suitable ventilation and the supplying of a reasonably dry sleeping berth. If this berth is situated in a shed or draughty building it should be enclosed. Pigs will do no better in a shed than in a dark, damp, poorly-ventilated corner of the stable even though the stable is considerably warmer.Cramped quarters are to be avoided as daily exercise is as desirable as proper feeding.

Indians Hold Convention

More than a hundred delegates from every Blackfoot tribe on the continent attended the first convention of the tribe at Macleod, in Southern Alberta last week. The reports of the convention describe it as a conclave of sober-minded, intelligent Indians bent upon the discussion of problems peculiar to them and the development of their resources. Many of the members of the Blackfoot tribes in Alberta are successful farmers.

BULLETIN FROM PROVINCIAL GOVT.

Alberta Judging Teams Win
Considerable distinction has been brought to the Province of Alberta during the past week by the success of the stock judging teams which represented the province at the Royal Stock Show at Toronto.

The team in swine judging from Vegreville, comprised of Albert Jones and Peter Wylie, was successful in winning the Canadian National stock judging competition against the other western teams at Toronto. This team won the C.P.R. silver trophy in the swine judging competition of the boys and girls club in Northern Alberta some weeks ago, and also the free trip to the Toronto show offered by the Canadian National railways. The team was coached by F. H. Newcombe, district agriculturist of the Provincial Department at Vegreville.

The Macdonald cup in the stock judging contest at Toronto was won by the team from Alberta University comprised of Thos. Devlin, Wm. Gentlen, Malcolm McArthur, C. K. Johns and L. B. Thomson, in charge of Prof. Sackville of the Animal Husbandry Department of the University. Premier honours in the entire competition were carried off by Devlin.

Dates for Seed Fair
The dates for the annual provincial seed fair, to be held this year at Calgary are announced tentatively as being January 20 to 23. The arrangement is in the hands of the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the Alberta Seed Growers' Association.

Municipal Convention
The annual convention of the Alberta association of municipal districts will be held this year at Calgary on November 27 and 28.

Steady Improvement in Cream Quality
Returns of cream grading for ten months of the present year show a continued increase in the quality of cream produced in the province. To the end of October of this year a total of 45,705,476 lbs. of cream had been graded, compared with 38,294,195 for the same period of last year. Of the amount graded this year, 41 per cent. graded special, compared with 37.2 per cent. last year, and 44.3 per cent. graded first compared with 41.4 per cent. last year. There has been a consequent drop in seconds from 16.9 per cent. last year to 11.3 per cent. this year.

The increase in cream graded this year over last year in the ten months has been 21.2 per cent. The amount of butter graded in the ten months has been 13,008,223 lbs. compared with 9,057,592 lbs. for the same period of last year an increase of 43.6 per cent.

Holds Corn Show
Another stage in Alberta's progress as a corn growing country was marked last week with the holding of a corn show at Milk River, south of Lethbridge. There was a good number of entries and the exhibits were of good quality.

Attendance at Agricultural Schools
Attendance at the Agricultural Schools this year shows a considerable revival of interest in the schools. The attendance at the Olds School of Agriculture this term has reached 180. The attendance last year was 132. The attendance at the Olds School of Agriculture at Claresholm is now 79, with eight or ten more to come compared with the total attendance last term of 70. At Vermilion School there are now 30 British youths in attendance.

Alberta's Good Record
A crop map prepared by the Canadian Pacific Railway received at the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton shows that of the 32 stations on the C.P.R. in the West which shipped more than a million bushels of wheat in 1923-24 season, 20 were in Alberta. Two stations on the system in the West shipped more than two million bushels, one of them being in Alberta. This was Vulcan, south of Calgary.

EGG LAYING CONTEST

The fifth Alberta egg laying Contest conducted at the Dominion experimental station at Lethbridge is now history. The final scores were made and the contest closed on the evening of October 29th.

As was the case last year the race for first position was very close. A pen of single comb white leghorns belonging to the winter egg poultry farm winning with a total production of 2311 eggs, or only 14 more than W. A. Fraser's barred rocks from Medicine Hat, which was second with 2317 eggs.

Some remarkably good individual scores were made; three pullets, two S.C. white leghorns and one barred rock, having laid over 300 eggs in the 364 days of the contest. Four other birds laid between 275 and 300, and 110 made a score of 200 or better, which is the number required to entitle them to registration in the Canadian live stock records.

50c. ONE YEAR $1.00 TWO YEARS CROP YIELD OFFER

This reduced price, made to share the loss of those with poor crops, benefits everyone. If your crop was small, pay 50c for One Year; if good, pay $1.00 for Two Years. You decide. The Nor West Farmer
The Pioneer Farm Journal of Western Canada
WINNIPEG

A bird to register must not only lay the requisite number of eggs, but the eggs must have an average weight of 24 ounces to the dozen, and the birds must have no standard disqualifications. A total of twelve 200-egg birds were disqualified.

An interesting feature of the contest is the increasing production obtained each year, which is an indication of the improvement in egg production of the poultry of the province. The first contest was held in 1919-20 and the average production of all birds entered that year was 122 eggs. The next year the average had increased to 128, the 3rd year to 136, the 4th year to 168, and this year the average production was 178 eggs.

The total eggs produced by the winning pens each year were—1st year, 1518; 2nd year, 1576; 3rd year, 1882; 4th year, 2208; 5th year, 2331.

The Sixth Contest started November 1st with more pens entered than in any previous year, thus showing the increased popularity of this activity of the Experimental Farms system.

"SANDY MACDONALD" is one of Scotland's rare old whiskies. Once you taste it you'll know how "Sandy" really is.

For many generations "Sandy Mac" as it is usually called, has been known all over Scotland—very well all over the world too—as a whisky that never varies in its high quality and reaches a degree of purity and "delicacy" of flavor that is as unusual as it is satisfying.

Drink "Sandy Mac" yourself and get it before your friends who know what is good.

hand an "shoo case. His stockings were of silk, a bunch of ribbons tucked his garters and the black rosettes on his shoes were finely edged with gold.

"Your people have arrested the wrong man, M. de Rivalor," Captain Blood began. "Instead of the French, they have arrested Captain Watervorne. It is a matter which I beg you to reverse without delay."

"Sir, you—you are insolent! But of insolence that is intolerable!"

"M. le Baron, you waste words. Justice is justice in the New World as in the Old. That justice I invite you with submission, to administer."

"With submission?" snorted the baron in furious scorn.

"At the same time I will remind M. le Baron that my buccaneer number 800; your troops 500; and M. de Cussy will inform you of the interesting fact that any one buccaneer is equal in action to at least three soldiers of the line."

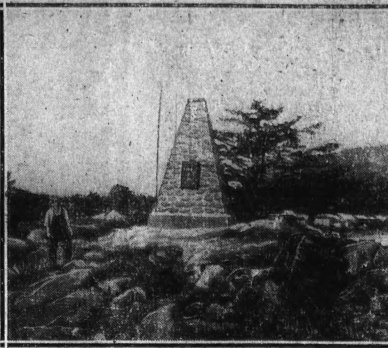

"You will do me the favor to wait in the ante-room, M. le Capitaine. I desire a word with M. de Cussy."

When the door had closed, the baron looked his fury upon the head of M. de Cussy.

"So there are the men you have enlisted in the King's service, the men who are to serve under me! What explanations do you offer me, M. de Cussy? I warn you that I am not pleased with you. I am, in fact, as you may perceive, exceedingly angry."

Historic Site at Friendly Cove, B.C.

The historic past of the Nootka section of the West Coast was recalled recently when Lieutenant-Governor Walter C. Nichol, of British Columbia, unveiled a monument commemorating the explorations of these great English navigators, Captain Cook and Captain Vancouver.

The monument was built under the auspices of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada which is placing similar memorials across the Dominion on sites hallowed by interesting chapters of Canadian history.

A large party travelled on the Canadian Pacific S.S. Princess Maquinna for the ceremony and left the steamer at the cannery wharf, boarding launches for the short run to Friendly Cove. The party included Lieutenant-Governor Nichol, H. J. S. Muskott, his secretary, Judge Howay and Mr. Forsyth, Dr. C. S. Newcombe, the well-known historical authority who wrote the "Circumnavigation of Vancouver Island," Prof. W. N. Sage of the University of British Columbia, Mrs. R. B. McClellan, representing the L.O.E., Mrs. and Miss Howay, Thomas Desay, late Indian agent for the Queen Charlotte agency and a pioneer of 1859, Dr. David Donald, Mrs. Cave-Browne-Cave, and Professor Macmillan Brown, chancellor of the University of New Zealand. Dr. Macmillan Brown is one of the leading ethnologists of the Pacific, and has been spending the summer on the coast investigating the Indians and their customs.

The new monument is seven feet broad by eleven feet high, with a standard size bronze tablet bearing the following inscription:

"Nootka Sound, discovered by Capt. Cook, in March, 1778. In June, 1789, Spain took possession and established and maintained a settlement until 1795. The capture of British vessels in 1799 almost led to war, which was avoided by the Nootka Convention, 1799. Vancouver and Quadra met here in August, 1792, to determine the land to be restored under the convention."

A feature of the entertainment provided those who took part in the unveiling ceremony was the Indian dancing, arranged by aborigines from Clayoquot Sound, the Wicwiltish of the early navigators' journals.

Tentative plans are afoot for an elaborate pageant to be held at Friendly Cove, Nootka Island, in four years time to celebrate the 150th anniversary of events commemorated by the unveiling of the cairn.

THE BRITISH

PREFERENCE

The rejection of the proposals of the last imperial conference of the subject repeal of the McKenna duties, on which Canada and the rest of the empire received a preference, has been responsible for certain amount of sorrow and for the feeling that while Canada gives Great Britain a substantial preference, she receives nothing in return.

The object of this article is to explain why it is impossible for Britain to grant a preference to Canada, and what she does instead.

The basis of Great Britain's position is as follows: The British Isles are a small and very thickly populated country and cannot grow more than about one-third of the food necessary to support the population. The remaining two thirds must be imported, and must be paid for, whether they come from other portions of the empire or from foreign countries.

This payment cannot be made in gold, which Britain does not produce and while a certain amount of her imports of food are paid for by the export of coal and by various services such as shipping, banking and insurance, which Britain performs for other countries, the bulk must be met by importing raw materials of low value and selling them abroad. The difference between these two values is therefore available for buying food.

Now in order to be able to sell manufactured goods abroad, it is obvious that British manufactures must be able to place their products on foreign markets, as cheaply as at all events as their competitors, and consequently a protective tariff which would increase the price of everything the manufacturer has to buy, would be a suicidal policy.

Great Britain does, however, give very real and substantial preference to the empire in other ways, of which the following are the most important:

1.—Defence.—Without the protection of the navy, Canada's seaborne commerce would be at the mercy of an enemy. The great crop of 1915 could not have been kept open by the navy than foreign governments. The benefit of this scheme, which, in its 28 vices—Canada does not maintain diplomatic and consular services, but has the free use of those maintained by Britain. Canadian abroad receive exactly the same assistance from the British consuls as Englishmen.

3.—Customs Duties and the Embargo.—Britain gives an empire preference on the few articles on which her responsible for certain amount of sorrow and for the feeling that while Canada gives Great Britain a substantial preference, she receives nothing in return.

2.—Tariff for revenue is imported, or sugar, tea, coffee, cocoa, etc. As Canada does not produce any of the above with the exception of maple sugar, the only benefits she receives is in respect of the sugar content of manufactured goods exported to England. Canada has, however, the exclusive right, of any country outside the British Isles, to export live cattle to Great Britain. This is a preference given exclusively to Canada.

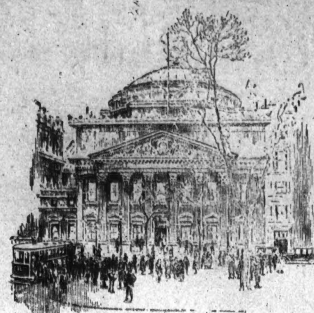

4.—Financial.—The supply of capital at reasonably low rates of interest is by far the greatest service England can render to Canada and this is encouraged by the following means:

(a) Income and Stamp Tax.—Incomes of residents of Great Britain when derived from investments in foreign countries, are subject to the full British income and super tax, in addition to any tax already levied in the country of origin.

Incomes derived from investments within the empire, however, received within the empire, enjoy a special rebate of up to 50 per cent of the British taxes, on production of income tax receipt from the dominion in question. The result of this is to encourage British investors to put their money in British instead of in foreign countries.

(b) Trustee Securities.—A very large amount of money in England is in the hands of trustees; because it is the custom to settle money in trust on marriages and in entails. These funds may only be invested in certain gilt-edged securities, such as any British government loan, or loans guaranteed by the British government or by any Dominion government. As a result of this restriction, the rate of interest is naturally lower than in the open market, and consequently dominion and foreign governments are able to raise loans at a lower rate of interest than foreign governments. The benefit of this scheme, which, in its 28 vices—Canada does not maintain dip-

THE BRITISH PREFERENCE

years of operation, have been of enormous value, have been somewhat modified temporarily in the case of Canada by the large volume of American money now seeking investment (and which has recently discovered Canada), and also by the fact that the field of investment is much bigger. In addition to this the depreciation of the pound sterling naturally discourages investors from buying dollar securities. This latter condition will pass, and Canada will again be able to obtain accommodation in London at a low rate of interest than in New York.

(c) Trade Facilities Act.—The British government, in order to obtain increased markets, is now guaranteeing loans under the above act to approved industries, on condition that the money is spent in England. These guarantees are only given to industrial concerns in the empire, who reap the advantage of being able to borrow in London on the most favorable terms which the British government's guarantee makes possible. Your edition of last Saturday mentioned a guarantee of $400,000 to a newsprint factory in Quebec.

There are, of course, other ways in which England endeavors to repay the benefits she receives from Canada and the other dominions, besides the above but these are perhaps the most important, and they are so little known to the man in the street that it may be of interest to our readers to hear about them.

The L.A. of St. Andrew's church will hold their annual bazaar in the theatre on Saturday, Dec. 6th at 2 p.m. Afternoon tea will be served and home cooking will be on sale. All are invited.
